Admiralty-Office, September 1.

LETTERS from the Right Honorable Lord Hood, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Fleet in the Mediterranean, to Mr. Stephens, of which the following are Extracts, were last Night received at this Office.

[DUPLICATE.]

Victory, Martello Bay, August 5, 1794.

MY Letter of the 15th of June would inform you, that having forced the French Ships on the 11th, which sailed from Toulon on the 5th, to seek their Safety within the Shoals in the Bay of Gourjean, and under the Protection of the Batteries of the Islands of St. Honora and St. Margaretta, and on Cape Garoupe; that I had left Vice-Admiral Hotham to watch them; and that I was returning to Corsica, to join Lieutenant-General Stuart for the Reduction of Calvi, which I have the Honor to acquaint you is now, I believe, on the Point of surrendering to the Arms of His Majesty.

Upon my Junction with Vice-Admiral Hotham off this Port on the 9th, I detached Captain Nelson in the Agamemnon to Bastia, with Orders to embark the Troops, and proceed with them to Martello Bay, where Lieutenant-General Stuart embarked on the 15th; and expressing a Wish to proceed to the Attack of Calvi immediately, Captain Nelson complied with it, and on the 19th all the Troops were landed, under the Direction of Captain Cooke, in a small Cove, about Three Miles from Calvi.

I anchored in Martello Bay on the 19th; and so soon as I had embarked the Ordnance and other Stores the General had desired, which the boisterous Weather for some Days prevented, and had forced the Agamemnon and several of the Transports from their Anchors; but His Majesty's smaller Ships, and the rest of the Transports, which were close under the Land, and had not Room to get under Sail, very fortunately rode the Gale out, without an Accident to either, the Wind not blowing Home to the Shore with so much Violence.

On the 26th I sailed, having previously sent Captain Hallowell and Captain Serocold, (who were eager Volunteers for the Service, as were also the Lieutenants Ferriers and Morgan) with as many able Seamen as the Victory could then spare, to assist in dragging up the Ordnance, and serving the Batteries.

The Journal I herewith transmit from Captain Nelson, who had the Command of the Seamen, will shew the daily Occurrences of the Siege, and whose unremitting Zeal and Exertion I cannot sufficiently express, or of that of Captain Hallowell, who took it by turns to command in the Advanced Battery Twenty-four Hours at a Time; and I flatter myself they, as well as the other Officers and Seamen, will have full Justice done them by the General; it is therefore unnecessary for me to say more upon the Subject: But I have to lament, and which I do most sincerely, the Loss of a very able and valuable Officer, Captain Serocold, who was killed by a Grape Shot, whilst getting the last Gun in it's Place, soon after the Enemy had discovered our Battery. The King has not a more meritorious young Captain in His Majesty's Navy: He commanded the Floating Battery, which was burnt by red-hot Shot, before Bastia, and afterwards served, with infinite Reputation, at the Batteries on Shore. Independent of my Regard and Esteem for him, I feel his Loss to be a Public one.

Much Credit is due to the Captains Wolseley, Hood, Sir Charles Hamilton, Sir Harry Burrard, Cunningham, Macnamara and Robinson, for their Vigilance in keeping Succours out, by a steady Perseverance in preserving their respective Stations, under manifest Difficulties; and I ought not to omit to mention my Tribute of Praise to Mr. Gibson, commanding the Fox hired Cutter, of whom all the Captains speak in the handsomest Manner for his Diligence and punctual Obedience to Orders. For near Two Months they did not receive at Calvi any Intelligence from the Continent, until the Night of the 29th, when Four Boats got in, the Port not being then so well and closely guarded, having been obliged to send off Three Frigates to Naples and other Places for Stores, which the General pressed for, and the Night's being dark.

On the 27th I arrived off Calvi, and have kept close off the Port ever since, in order to receive the Wants
